PRICE TWO CENTS

WATERMELON CROP BELOW AVERAGE

Shippers Believe that Only One-Third As Many Cars As Usual Will Be Loaded This Year.

CROP SEVERAL WEEKS LATE

Commission Men Have Many Calls for Famous "Jackson County Variety" of Melons.

The watermelon crop in Jackson county will be at its height by the middle of next week, and the growers and shippers are making arrangements to handle thousands of melons before the close of the month. The crop is several weeks late this year and usually many cars have been shipped by this time. The growers declare that the late crop is due to the continued wet weather in the early spring and also the unfavorable weather for cultivation later in the season. Many of the farmers who have many acres in melons say that the crop would have been large if they had been given an opportunity to cultivate the vines properly a few months ago.

The shippers are not expecting to receive but about one-third of a crop this year, although they believe that the quality will be fine. The melons which have already been sent to the city markets were in good condition and are a fair sample of what the average will be this year.

Vallonia is one of the principal shipping points in this county, and in former years from one to two hundred cars of melons were sent from that place. One of the prominent shippers stated today that he did not believe that over thirty cars would be sent from that place this year. He was of the opinion that the combined crop of all the growers in the county would not be more than one hundred and twenty-five cars, which is much less than in former years.

The cultivation of watermelons in this county has been given much attention by the farmers, and as a result, the melons from this county have a wide reputation. Each year several carloads are sent east and some of them find their way across the ocean. Commission men in the larger cities who receive the supply from this county say that they can always find a ready market for Jackson county melons and that they are preferable to those grown in other parts of the state.

Vallonia is the largest melon shipping point in the county, if not in the state. When the cars are being loaded it is not unusual to see thousands of melons piled along the railroad track, awaiting the cars, so that they can be sent to the market. Many cars are also loaded in this city and at Reddington.

Jackson county cantaloupes also have a reputation throughout the Middle West and are in demand. Hundreds of these melons have been shipped this year, and the growers believe that the late crop will be much better than those which ripened earlier in the season. The melons were delayed by the wet weather, and the growers have had very unfavorable weather for cultivating their crops. Despite this, however, the quality has been excellent and the crops profitable.

Local shippers are paying from 10 to 12 cents apiece for watermelons for shipping purposes, while larger prices are given by the retail merchants.

DIED.

HAMILTON—George R. Hamilton, who for many years was engaged in business at Brownstown, died Tuesday morning at his home in that city. The funeral services will be held today. He was widely known in the county and highly thought of. He was a member of the Presbyterian church. He was married in October 1878 to Miss Sadie Daily who survives him.

New Plan.

The reorganizing committee of the Southern Indiana and Chicago Southern has issued a new plan which has been approved by the various protective committees with which all classes of securities have been deposited. The new company is to authorize $20,000,000 first and refunding mortgage fifty-year bonds, to bear interest not higher than 5 per cent. and $6,500,000 fifty-year income bonds to bear interest at 4 per cent. for the first two years and 5 per cent. thereafter.

Charged With Petit Larceny.

Marshal Russell arrested Jesse Farber Friday on charge of petit larceny preferred by George Sutton. The young man was a brother of Mr. Sutton's wife, who died about two weeks ago, and had been making his home with them until that time. The articles he is charged with stealing are a pair of pants, some bacon, flour and other articles. He was arraigned before Justice Bosley, who bound him over to the circuit court. Heltonville Man Killed.

William J. Browning, of Heltonville, received word Wednesday that his son Howard Browning, 34 years old, had met a tragic death, by a log rolling on him. The young man had been at Yazoo, Miss., working in the lumber business for the past three years, and it was while out lumbering that the log rolled on him. The remains will arrive tomorrow for burial.

Wanted—Motormen and Conductors.

On account of the recent strike, we are in a position to offer permanent positions to a number of young men with good reference. No previous experience necessary. Call on or write at once to

FIELD WELL COVERED.

What the Exchanges Have to Say of Suspension of Herald.

The Seymour Independent Herald, a paper that made its initial appearance on July 4, last, after forty-three issues, has taken the count. The knockout blow was delivered last Monday evening and Seymour must hereafter manage to get along without the boosful help of the Independent Herald.

Several reasons, any one of which would have been sufficient, might be given as contributing to the demise of the superfluous publication. In the first place it was just that—superfluous.

Seymour already had two old established papers and in that circumscribed field there was no room for another. Another reason it could not survive is that most of its people in any community are either democrats or republicans. There are precious few independents, regulars, standpatters, insurgents, mugwumps, or what-nots, and what few there are do not take kindly to a newspaper that blows hot and cold—lambasts one of the old parties one day and the other one the next day, according to which one of the partners happens to be in charge of the publication that day.

Another thing, Seymour is too small a town for a multiplicity of newspapers. Why, even Columbus has but two daily papers—practically one, as the Republican's field is unchallenged and will remain so because the people recognize the fact that an honest effort is continuously maintained to produce a real newspaper with up-to-date features.

As a matter of course Mercer & Pringle, the publishers of the defunct Independent Herald, have the sympathy of the Republican for any financial loss that has accrued to them by reason of their failure, but candor compels us to say that Seymour was swindled with newspapers.—Columbus Republic.

The Daily Independent Herald, of Seymour, has suspended publication after forty-three days of strenuous life. Sickness is given as the cause of suspension, but we have seen the same "sickness" in other instances. As a matter of fact there were two papers well established at Seymour, a city of less than 6,000 inhabitants. One daily newspaper is ample for that city, and two may survive, but three makes it a cinch of failure. Just why people will butt into the newspaper business where there is no call for a newspaper we cannot understand. The path of the newspaper is not always a rosy one, and three meals a day looks pretty good to the best of them.—Brazil Times.

The Seymour Independent Herald, established by C. S. Mercer and a Mr. Pringle July 4th, ceased publication last Monday. The new publication was well printed and well edited, but it entered a field that was already supplied with two established papers, which is really all Seymour can support. The Banner made this same statement when the two democratic papers up there were combined a few months ago, and the short life of the Herald bears us out in what we said at that time.—Brownstown Banner.

RIDES IN ENGINE CAB.

Showed President Willard, of B. & O., That Equipment Was Faulty.

An illustration of the practical ways and personal attention of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, in looking after everything that makes for the best interests of the road, it is related that he recently made a discovery which resulted in a shake-up for the testing department.

On his way home from New York several weeks ago, he left his private car at Philadelphia and went into the engine cab, in which he made the rest of the journey. Being an expert engineer himself, it was not long before he discovered that the locomotive was not doing its best work. This was no fault of the man in charge, but due to some inaccuracy in the engine itself.

Reaching Baltimore he at once had the engine sent to the testing department and a new one ordered on the train to make the rest of the run to Washington. The fault in the first locomotive soon was discovered, but this did not wholly suit the wide-awake railroad chief, and he gave orders for the testing of all the passenger engines.

To do this properly necessitated the riding on the cowcatchers of two testing experts between Washington and Philadelphia. These held a speed indicator and also noted the vibrations and movements of the locomotive at varying speed. It was said that Mr. Willard will not be satisfied until the high-power engines are capable of making at least eighty-four miles an hour, day and night. The most of them, it is said, can now do this.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

Institute New Temple at Uniontown, Wednesday.

A Pythian Temple was instituted at Uniontown Wednesday with a membership of twenty-two ladies and seventeen Knights. About thirty members of Success Temple No. 310 of this city went out and assisted in the organization, and are all very loud in their praises of the hospitality of the good people of Uniontown. The afternoon was spent in the instituting of the Temple, installing officers, obligating the ladies, etc., and the evening session was given over to obligating the Knights and the secret work which was under the supervision of the officers and degree staff of Success Temple and was highly complimented by the Uniontown Temple.

At five o'clock the entire company, about seventy-five in all, were invited to the beautiful home of Dr. Perrin, where the members of the new Temple had gathered with well filled baskets.

Two long tables, the full width of the magnificent lawn was provided with everything the land affords in the way of good things to eat. It is scarcely necessary to state that all did honor to this sumptuous repast. If a person had been without an appetite for a month a mere glance at those tables would have restored it back to them.

The good people were unremitting in their attention to all present, and the occasion, which proved so enjoyable, was made so to a great extent through their exertions, and at the close of the evening session two large freezers of ice cream were carried into the hall and were in charge of the Knights who abundantly served all present with all the cream they could possibly eat.

The pleasure of the evening ended with a "hay ride" which proved to be a most enjoyable feature of the occasion.

A number of visitors were in attendance from Comiskey, Dupont,

Scottsburg, Crothersville and Medora.

It was long past midnight when the large gathering dispersed, saying,

with one accord, that the Uniontown people were ideal entertainers and that it was good to be there. Our people returned home at 1:15 this morning.

PLEASANT GROVE.

Sunday School was largely attended Sunday.

Berry Richards still remains in a critical condition.

Misses Leona and Rena Brown, of Versailles, Kentucky, who has been visiting here for some time, returned home one day last week.

Several from here attended the Home Coming at Brownstown last week. All report a good time.

Henry Kerns and wife of Spraytown, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. George Lucas and family.

James Wert and daughters, Misses Annie and Mildred, Clyde Wert, wife and two children, John Smith and two children, and Ed. Boltz and son, Wert, of Cincinnati, Ohio, spent Sunday in the family of Jesse Thompson.

James Temple and family of Washington County, spent Sunday with S. W. Robertson and family.

John Spray and wife visited Mrs. Mary Spray at Lahrmansville Sunday.

The youngest daughter of Calvin Baker and wife died Friday, August 19, 1910, age two years. Funeral services were conducted at Pleasant Grove church Saturday at 11 o'clock a.m. by Rev. F. H. Reynolds. The bereaved family has the sympathy of the entire community.

Everybody remember the Sunday School celebration at this place Saturday, Sept. 3, 1910.

Had Him Treated.

He had never fished before, and his rod was new and shining with resplendent varnish. Faultlessly attired, he was whipping a trout stream when by some odd chance he got a bite. A writer in Forest and Stream who happened to come along tells what occurred. The fisherman had hooked a one pounder from the way the line strained.

He was not playing the fish at all. With rod held straight ahead he was slowly and steadily reeling him in. How he managed to hold the fish was a mystery to me.

Presently the fish was directly below the end of the rod. Did he stop? No; he kept on reeling the fish in, and just as I reached the water's edge the fish's head touched the tip. The man even tried to pull him through the ring.

Just then he saw me standing on shore waving my arms. He turned to me with a bewildered look and said, "What shall I do now?"

"The only thing you can do now," I said, "is to climb up the pole after him."

Mothers—Have you tried Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea? It's a great blessing to the little ones, keeps away summer troubles. Makes them sleep and grow. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

Dr. Johnson's Fruit Appetite. No man ever welcomed the return of the fruit season more heartily than did Dr. Johnson. Of strawberries and cream he declared that he could never have enough, though in his later years he devoured enormous quantities of them. A voracious eater at any time, Johnson's appetite for fruit was limitless. Mrs. Thrale says that he used to eat seven or eight peaches before he began his breakfast. Lucy Porter, at Litchfield, used always to keep the best gooseberries on the bushes in her garden until Johnson came down to pick them.

Men always love to see a girl. With a dandy clear complexion; Rocky Mountain Tea's the stuff. That gives it to perfection.

LEADING EDUCATOR
ON STATE TICKETROOSEVELT'S
IRE AROUSED

S. C. Ferrell, for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Fine intelligence, a gracious personality and wholesome comeliness of character are combined in Samuel C. Ferrell, the educator. Mr. Ferrell is strong among teachers and school workers in Indiana, and in his race for superintendent of public instruction, this year, it is predicted that the influence of county superintendents and instructors generally will be thrown in large measure to his cause.

Mr. Ferrell's many years as a district school teacher, as a high school teacher and principal, as a city superintendent at Shelbyville, and as a county superintendent in Porter county, fit him to deal with all phases of school work in the state. His own experience—working his way through college, to his A. B. degree, before he was 21 years old—gives him the viewpoint of the aspiring student, and gives him the ability to see the needs and the actualities of the school system.

He has all the sympathy of the self-made man for the youth who is struggling upward toward success. Mr. Ferrell already is known widely as a helper of the young. As state superintendent he will widen that reputation in a most practical and beneficial way.

VICE PRESIDENT TO RETIRE

When Term of Office Ends Will Quit the Game.

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Unless Vice President James S. Sherman changes his mind he will never be a candidate for a political office. This construction was put on a statement which he made here.

Mr. Sherman repeatedly refused to say one word concerning politics to the numerous questions put to him.

But it is learned that he did say to some of the incorporators of the Northern New York Trust company, in which he is a heavy stockholder, that when he retired from the office which he now holds that he would quit politics for good. He declared emphatically that his statement was no joke, but that he meant exactly what he said.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Vice President Sherman has announced his intention to retire from politics.

President Roosevelt will fight the reactionaries in the New York Republican convention.

A delegation of Knights of Columbus from America were received by his holiness, the pope, at Rome.

Mistaken for a dog, a farmer named Lucas Sanford was shot by a neighbor, John Griffith, near Greenfield, Ind.

Senator Lafollette, in Wisconsin, defines the power of President Taft and will seek re-election on his record as an insurgent.

William Mayor, a fireman, was killed and another fireman was seriously injured in a fire which damaged the establishment of the Jenkins Music company at Kansas City. Lightning caused the fire. The loss is about $20,000.

David O. Hinkley, a pioneer farmer living near Kendallville, Ind., is dead of bee stings received when he unearthed a nest of bumblebees while plowing. He was found lying in a furrow with his head and neck covered with bee stings.

The revolt in Nicaragua has been successful, according to advices received at Washington. Madriz, the president of the little republic, fled the country.

As a climax to the sensational testimony showing fraud in the Springfield (Ill.) park election of last spring, it has been discovered that the ballot boxes, which have been in the custody of the court since the contest was instituted, had been opened, and that the poll books had been extracted. These books furnished evidence of wholesale ballot box stuffing.

HOPE

Hope is always liberal, and they that trust her promises make little scruple of reveling today on the profits of tomorrow.—Johnson.

Barnes Has Evidently Stirred Him Up.

MAKES HIS POSITION CLEAR

He Will Go to the State Convention and Speak His Sentiments—Will Stand for Progressive Policies and Give the Old Guard All the Fight It Wants.

New York, Aug. 25.—Former President Roosevelt was quoted as saying in Herkimer that he had read in the papers the statement made by William Barnes, Jr. In that statement Barnes had left no doubt that he would continue to fight Colonel Roosevelt.

"Well, then," said the colonel, when questioned about the statement, "they will have all the fight they want. I am only going to that convention because I feel that the public interest—the interest of the people of the state of New York—demands that the party be given a chance to stand squarely and uncompromisingly for clean, decent, honest politics.

"I go up to that convention to make my speech exactly as I had originally planned it, and while I hope there will be enough good sense to prevent anyone opposing the principles for which I stand, yet if they do oppose me, it is their own affair. As far as I am concerned the issue shall be absolutely clean cut."

The fight between the old guard and the progressives of the Republican party is to be taken to the convention. It has been agreed by both sides that the struggle for the control of the convention will be one of the liveliest that has happened in this state for many years past. William Barnes, Jr., who is remaining in town for the purpose of meeting Timothy L. Woodruff, chairman of the state committee, who is at headquarters today, said, and he admitted that he was speaking for the leaders of the regular party, that any attempt to force a direct primary plank into the platform at the Saratoga convention and that any effort which might be made to name some one other than Vice President Sherman as the temporary chairman of the convention would be fought to the last ditch by himself and his associates at the head of the machine.

"I am ready to quit as a county leader," said Mr. Barnes, "if we are beaten, and if my retention of the job of surveyor of the port of Albany rests upon my supporting the direct primary, then I will be willing to give up the job without my resignation being asked for."

Mr. Barnes thinks, however, that there will be no necessity for giving up either his place on the state committee or his surveyorship for the reason that, as he contends, the primaries will show that the majority of the voters of the state are not in favor of direct primaries. Mr. Barnes said further that as it seemed apparent, from the statement made earlier in the day by Roosevelt at Herkimer, that the progressives, under the lead of Roosevelt, were determined to insist on a direct nomination plank, the regulars were willing to accept the issue and to fight it out at the convention.

The Eagles.

St. Louis, Aug. 25.—The taking of evidence in the graft investigation by the special trial committee of the grand Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles at the convention here is still in progress. From a well-informed delegator it was learned that the prosecution concluded with the testimony of Grand Secretary Conrad H. Mann of Kansas City, who made the discovery of the alleged graft. After luncheon Edward Krause of Wilmington, Del., former grand president, who is one of the four high officials accused, took the stand in his own defense.

No further business of the order will be transacted until the investigation is concluded.

New Aeroplane.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Dr. William W. Christmas of this city has invented an aeroplane which will be tried out at an aviation meet to be held here in the near future. According to an announcement, the Christmas machine will be operated by Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator who made the flight from New York to Philadelphia and return. While in this city Mr. Hamilton will be entertained by the local aero club.

Snow Kills Flames.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 25.—The forest fire situation is greatly clarified, for which nature is chiefly responsible, in that light rain and snow falls have dampened the timber and thus permitted the fighters to back fire successfully. The winds have also moderated in marked degree, and it is now apparently certain that the fires will be confined to the areas already burned.

Death of Senator Call.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Wilkinson Call, former United States senator from Florida, died here yesterday. Apoplexy was the immediate cause of death. Mr. Call was a native of Kentucky and was seventy-six years old. He served in the senate from 1879 to 1887.

A Lover of Liberty.
A jovial German saloon keeper who rarely gets excited was roused out of his usual genial mood not long ago by a chap with a deformed sense of humor. The German had one of those old fashioned fly traps in his place. It was about a foot high and about half the diameter at the bottom. The flies get in somehow, and then they can't find their way out. A fellow went into the saloon one of the hot days, and the big fly trap was full. "I'll give you half a dollar for them flies," says he, and the German's face lit up as he accepted it and shoved over the trap. The man looked at it awhile, then loosened the bottom and let the flies out.

"What's der matter mit you?" yelled the exasperated and now excited German.

"Nothing," replied the man as he hurriedly reached the door. "They were my flies, and I could do what I wanted with them."—Detroit Free Press.

A Difficult Role.

Etiquette laid down for the presentation of addresses to royalty is somewhat difficult of observance. Some years ago the mayor of Gravesend, England, applied to one of his predecessors for advice on this subject, as a royal duke and duchess were about to pass through the town and he had to inflict the usual amount of vexation on them. The ex-mayor wrote in reply: "The only hints I can give you are these: Don't turn your back on the duchess, for that would be rude. Don't turn your face to her or the duke might be jealous. But just wriggle along sideways."

An Elegant Figure.

Mrs. Jennings and her city cousin were exchanging news of their old school friends. "How about Lucy Morse?" asked the cousin. "Has she kept on growing fatter and fatter?"

"Well, all I'll say is this," said Mrs. Jennings. "Annie Fall told me last year that when Lucy sent home from Nashua, where she was nursing her uncle, to have a silk waist made, Annie realized she hadn't got any measures, and then she remembered that the last time Lucy was there she stood up by the big air tight stove, and Annie remarked to herself—the resemblance between 'em. And she took the measure of that air tight and cut in a mite for the waistline—about as much as a knife marks warm molasses candy—and made the waist accordingly, set it on, and Lucy wrote back it was an elegant fit."

Would Not Keep Her Back.

Saddler Sims was a droll character and yet of a type by no means scarce in the rural districts of the north of Scotland. One morning when a neighbor entered his shop he was greeted with the following:

"Man, Jeemie, I had an awfu' dream last night. I thought I saw my wife fleein' aw' up to heaven wi' a great big pair of weengs."

"Aye, man, an' did ye try to pu' her back?"

"Na, na; I juist clappit my hands an' cried, 'Shoo, shoo!' I was feart she wad never ha' anither chance of gettin' sae near in."

Russia Leather.

When Marshall Jewell was minister to Russia he discovered the secret of making Russia leather by his sense of smell. The Russians use birch bark tar in dressing skins instead of tallow and grease. By literally following his nose one day on a visit to a large Russian leather tannery Jewell chanced upon the secret compound in a large kettle. He recognized the odor of the birch bark and reported the discovery to his government. As a result genuine Russia leather goods are now being made in this country.

BORDER TRAGEDY
IS DISCLOSEDRemains of Twenty Foresters
Are Found.

INCIDENT OF CONFLAGRATION

The Fires Rage Unchecked in a Number of States and Authorities Are Taking Every Precaution to Get the Situation in Hand—The Losses Are Beyond Calculation.

Spokane, Aug. 25.—Dispatches from Avery, Idaho, tell of the finding of the bodies of twenty forest service men near that place. Additional information was to the effect that a party of Japanese laborers and four negro soldiers from Company G, Twenty-fifth United States Infantry, had been reported missing. It is feared that they, too, have perished.

The first official report given out previously to the receipt of the wire from Avery, placed the number of dead at fifty-four. If later dispatches are correct the number definitely known to have perished will be raised to about eighty.

Rain, turning to snow in the high mountains, has brought relief to a large part of Idaho, Montana and Washington districts that have been devastated by forest fires. The storm, according to reports from Missoula, has extended over an area of 100 square miles, taking in the Coeur D'Alene district.

When the roll of the Coeur D'Alene national forest employees was called in the office of Supervisor W. R. Weigel at Wallace, all of the men were accounted for except Joseph P. Halm of Wallace, a deputy ranger, who had performed excellent work and was last seen with his crew north of the Big Fork of the Coeur D'Alene river in a district that was burned over Saturday night. Grave fears for the safety of the crew are felt.

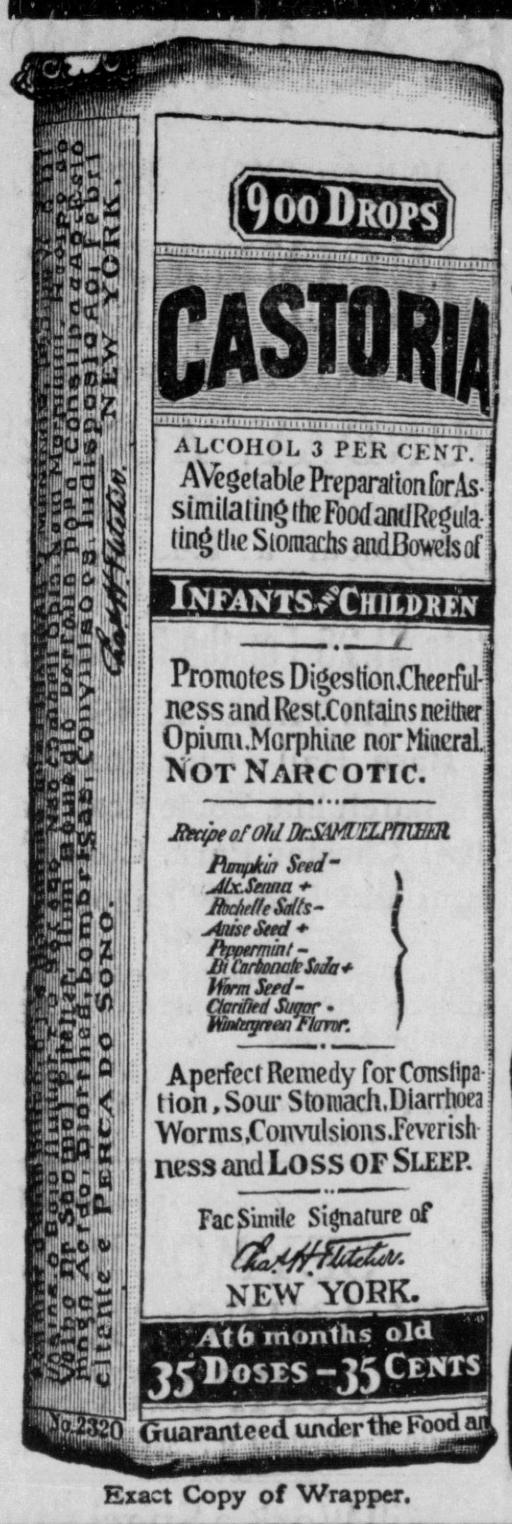

Rangers are opening a road from the Bullion mine to Wallace, in order that the bodies of the men who may have perished at the mine may be brought here for burial.

Deputy Edward C. Pulaski of Wallace, whose name has been mentioned frequently in the fire dispatches for his bravery, lies on a cot in the Hope hospital at Wallace, blinded in one eye and badly burned on the head and hands.

Reports are that everywhere except near the towns the fires were spreading. Many companies of United States troops were on the way to the red battlefield, hoping to outmaneuver an enemy that could not be conquered by a front attack.

Reports from the forest fires on the Middle Fork and in the Elk City region states that the wind blew a gale and the ground gained by the rangers and volunteers in the hill in the tempest last Monday had been lost. Maj. Fenn, who is in command of 500 men, considers the situation desperate, and although the almost exhausted fire fighters are working with renewed energy, he has little hope of making any headway. However, the wind has fallen and the flames are advancing less rapidly.

Nearly 100 men who were sent to the assistance of the rangers in that locality a CONSERVATION HIS KEYNOTE.

Tillers of Soil Must Take Advice From Giants of Business World—Home Life Should Be Much Happier—Take the Condition of the Hired Man and His Wife Into Consideration.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 23.—There are no two public questions of more vital importance to the future of this country than the problem of conservation and the problem of the betterment of public life. Moreover, these two problems are really interdependent, for neither of them can be successfully solved save on condition that there is at least a measurable success in the effort to solve the other. In any great country the prime physical asset—the physical asset more valuable than any other—is the fertility of the soil. All our industrial and commercial welfare, all our material development of every kind, depends in the last resort upon our preserving and increasing the fertility of the soil.

This, of course, means the conservation of the soil as the great natural resource, and equally, of course, it furthermore implies the development of country life, for there cannot be a permanent improvement of the soil if the life of those who live on it and make their living out of it is suffered to starve and languish to become stunted and weazened and inferior to the type of life lived elsewhere.

We are now trying to preserve, not for exploitation by individuals, but for the permanent benefit of the whole people, the waters and the forests, and we are doing this primarily as a means of adding to the fertility of the soil, although in each case there is a great secondary use both of the water and of the forests for commercial and industrial purposes. In the same way it is essential for the farmers themselves to try to broaden the life of the man who lives in the open country, to make it more attractive, to give it every adjunct and aid to development which has been given to the life of the man of the cities.

Therefore, friends, the conservation and rural life policies are really two sides of the same policy, and down at the bottom this policy rests upon the fundamental law that neither man nor nation can prosper unless in dealing with the present he steadily take thought for the future.

Interest Old One.

In one sense this problem—with which we have to deal is very old. Wherever civilizations have hitherto sprung up they have always tended to go through certain stages and then to fall. No nation can develop a real civilization without cities. Up to a certain point the city movement is thoroughly healthy. Yet it is a strange and lamentable fact that always hitherto after this point has been reached the city has tended to develop at the expense of the country by draining the country of what is best in it and making an insignificant return for this best.

In consequence in the past every civilization in its later stages has tended really to witness those conditions under which "the cities prosper and the men decay." There are ugly signs that these tendencies are at work in this nation of ours. But very fortunately we see now what never before was seen in any civilization—an aroused and alert public interest in the problem, a recognition of its gravity and a desire to attempt its solution.

The problem does not consist merely in the growth of the city. Such a growth in itself is a good thing and not a bad thing for the country. The problem consists in the growth of the city at the expense of the country, and even where this is not the case in so great an equality of growth in power and interest as to make the city more attractive than the country and therefore apt to drain the country of the people who ought to live therein.

The human side of the rural life problem is to make the career of the farmer and the career of the farm laborer as attractive and as remunerative as corresponding careers in the city. Now, I am well aware that the farmer must himself take the lead in bringing this about. A century and a quarter ago the wise English farmer, Arthur Young, wrote of the efforts to improve French wool:

"A cultivator at the head of a sheep farm of 3,000 or 4,000 acres would in a few years do more for their wools than all the academicians and philosophers will effect in ten centuries." It is absurd to think that any man who has studied the subject only theoretically is fit to direct those who practically work at the matter. But, friends, I wish to insist to you here, to you practical men who own and work your farms, that it is an equally pernicious absurdity for the practical man to refuse to benefit by the work of the student.

The English farmer I have quoted—Young—was a practical farmer, but he was also a scientific farmer.

Equal Terms With City Folks.

Country life should be as attractive as city life, and the country people should insist upon having their full representation when it comes to dealing with all great public questions.

In other words, country folks should demand that they work on equal terms with city folks in all such matters.

They should have their share in the memberships of commissions and coun-ers, have gone ahead while the farmer has tended to lag behind the others is that they are far more willing and indeed eager to profit by expert and technical knowledge—the knowledge that can only come as a result of the highest education. From railways to factories no great industrial concern can nowadays be carried on save by the aid of a swarm of men who have received a high technical education in chemistry, in engineering, in electricity and in one or more of scores of special subjects.

The big business man, the big railway man, does not ask college trained experts to tell him how to run his business, but he does ask numbers of them each to give him expert advice and aid on some one point indispensable to his business. He finds this man usually in some graduate of a technical school or college in which he has been trained for his life work.

In just the same way the farmers should benefit by the advice of the technical men who have been trained in phases of the very work the farmer does. I am not now speaking of the man who has had an ordinary general training, whether in school or college. While there should undoubtedly be such a training as a foundation extent differing according to the kind of work each boy intends to do as a man. It is nevertheless true that our educational system should more and more be turned in the direction of educating men toward and not away from the farm and the shop.

During the last half century we have begun to develop a system of agricultural education at once practical and scientific, and we must go on developing it. But after developing it it must be used. The rich man who spends a fortune upon a fancy farm with entire indifference to cost does not do much good to farming; but, on the other hand, just as little is done by the working farmer who stoutly refuses to profit by the knowledge of the day, who treats any effort at improvement as absurd on its face, refuses to countenance what he regards as new fangled ideas and contrivances and jeers at all "book farming."

I wish I could take representatives of this type of farmer down to Long Island, where I live, to have them see what has been done, not as philanthropy, but as a plain business proposition, by men connected with the Long Island railroad, who believe it pays to encourage the development of farms along the line of that railway. They have put practical men in charge of experimental farms, cultivating them intensively and using the best modern methods not only in raising crops, but in securing the best market for the crops when raised.

The growth has been astounding, and land only fifty miles from New York which, during our entire national lifetime has been treated as worthless, has within the last three or four years been proved to possess a really high value.

Interest to Farm Life.

The farmer, however, must not only make his land pay, but he must make country life interesting for himself and for his wife and his sons and daughters. Our people as a whole should realize the infinite possibilities of life in the country, and every effort should be made to make these possibilities more possible.

From the beginning of time it has been the man raised in the country—and usually the man born in the country—who has been most apt to render the services which every nation most needs. Turning to the list of American statesmen, it is extraordinary to see how large a proportion started as farm boys. But it is rather sad to see that in recent years most of these same boys have ended their lives as men living in cities.

It often happens that the good conditions of the past can be regained not by going back, but by going forward. We cannot recreate what is dead; we cannot stop the march of events. But we can direct this march and out of the new conditions develop something better than the past knew. Henry Clay was a farmer, who lived all his life in the country; Washington was a farmer, who lived and died in the country. And we of this nation ought to make it our business to see that the conditions are made such that farm life in the future shall not only develop men of the stamp of Washington and Henry Clay, but shall be so attractive that these men may continue as farmers, for remember that Washington and Henry Clay were successful farmers.

I hope that things will so shape themselves that the farmer can have a great career and yet end his life as a farmer, so that the city man will look forward to living in the country rather than the country man to living in the city.

Farmers should learn how to combine effectively, as has been done in industry. I am particularly glad to speak to the grange, for I heartily believe in farmers' organizations, and we should all welcome every step taken toward an increasing co-operation among farmers. The importance of such movements cannot be overestimated, and through such intelligent joint action it will be possible to improve the market just as much as the farm.

The Thoughtful Parent.

The professor of ancient languages had been left for a short time in charge of his only son and heir, aged eighteen months. He was in his study, and the mother, who had been content while she heard her husband's voice, was uneasy when the sound of a triumphant "There!" came from the study.

She stepped to the door, left wide open in case she might be needed to assuage some sudden woe, looked in and then sprang over the threshold to the baby.

"James," she cried indignantly, "did you give baby this to play with? Don't you know he always puts buttons in his mouth? I've told you so a hundred times."

"Why, yes, my dear, certainly I am aware of that," said the professor, rudely recalled from Assyrian research, "but when I saw how he desired the button I conceived the idea of attaching it firmly to a long string, so that in case the button did slip down it could be speedily recovered and all harm prevented."

Republican Convention.

The Republican county convention will be held at Brownstown on Monday, September 19, 1910, and will be called to order at 11 a. m. The delegates to the county convention will be chosen by the Republicans of the several townships on Saturday, September 17. Each township will be entitled to one delegate and one alternate for every twenty-five votes cast for William Howard Taft in 1908. The Republicans of each township are called to meet in mass convention at time and place designated below to select their delegates.

Brownstown township—Place of meeting, Brownstown; time, 1:30 p. m.; delegates, 10; alternates, 10.

Carr Township—Place of meeting, Medora; time, 1:30 p. m.; delegates, 8; alternates, 8.

Driftwood Township—Place of meeting, Vallonia; time, 1:30 p. m.; delegates, 6; alternates, 6.

Grassy Fork Township—Place of meeting, Tampico; time, 1:30 p. m.; delegates, 5; alternates, 5.

Hamilton Township—Place of meeting, Cortland; time, 1:30 p. m.; delegates, 6; alternates, 6.

Jackson Township—Place of meeting, Seymour; time, 7:30 p. m.; delegates, 35; alternates, 35.

Owen Township—Place of meeting, Clearsprin; time, 1:30 p. m.; delegates, 6; alternates, 6.

Redding Township—Place of meeting, Walnut Grove; time, 1:30 p. m.; delegates, 6; alternates, 6.

Salt Creek Township—Place of meeting, Freetown; time, 1:30 p. m.; delegates, 7; alternates, 7.

Vernon Township—Place of meeting, Crothersville; time, 1:30 p. m.; delegates, 8; alternates, 8.

Washington Township—Place of meeting; Dudleytown; time, 1:30 p. m.; delegates, 4; alternates, 4.

Total numbers of delegates to be chosen, 101; alternates, 101.

The Republicans are all urged to attend both the township convention on Saturday, September 17, and the county convention on Monday, September 19. A good speaker, probably one of the candidates on the state ticket, will address the county convention.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The annual teachers' institute is a phase of school work which is of growing importance. Educators who have given this subject careful attention are almost universally of the opinion that such meetings are of great value and well worth the expenditure of money required for their maintenance. The teachers, too, are appreciating more fully the benefits to be derived from the institute as evidenced by the large enrollments which have been recorded during the past few years.

The real value of the meetings, however, is proportionate to the interest of the teacher. If the institute is regarded simply as a part of the compulsory routine of a teacher's career, the benefits will be much less than when an especial effort is made to obtain from the lectures and discussions some helpful ideas, which may be given a practical application in the school room. Pedagogy is a subject covering a wide field and which is constantly making rapid progress and improvement. The system of teaching which was used a decade ago has been replaced with a more modern system. The successful instructor must be cognizant of these changes and adopt them as the demand arises. At the institute many of these changes are discussed and the teacher is given an opportunity to determine their relative strength or weakness, and are thus better informed, which, if any of them, could be used advantageously in the presentation of the various subjects.

The citizens of Flint, Mich., are boasting of the fact that an automobile factory is the direct cause of the 13,103 in 1900 to 38,550 in 1910. There are several cities in Indiana which have had automobile factories with less successful results.

BRINGS BIG PRICE.

Farm in Hamilton Township sells for $221.75 per acre.

The farm in Hamilton township belonged to the late Mrs. Lettie Brown, was sold today to J. B. Thompson, and brought what is probably the largest price ever paid for farm land in this county. The farm consists of fifty-seven and one-half acres and was sold for $12,750, or about $221.75 per acre. The value of the improvements is small. J. P. Ahl, as auctioneer, sold the land.

There were two other bidders for this real estate, one of whom bid just twenty-five cents less per acre than the price for which the land was sold. Land in Hamilton township has been bringing a good price for several years, but this is the largest that has been recorded for some time.

A COUNT'S PRANK.

Delighted the Revelers, but Worried the Police of Stockholm.

All Europe is laughing at the latest escapade of Count Gasta Hamilton, known as "Le conte des chats—the cat count," and a member of the English ducal house of Hamilton. The story of his latest prank is told in European newspapers.

Count Gasta and some of his cronies had honored Rosenbad, a popular resort in Stockholm, with their patronage, and as a result some of the furniture had been broken. In particular, the covering of a fine sofa had been ripped and damaged. The manager of the resort remonstrated with the count and suggested the advisability of the latter paying for the damage. This the count agreed to do and virtually purchased the piece of furniture, receiving a receipt from the manager.

In a short time a singular procession was seen by night revelers in the park wending its way from the main restaurant to the public road. Four sturdy messengers carried a sofa, on which reclined the count and his companions provided with napkins tied to their canes. Amid cheers the procession left the grounds. It had not proceeded far before a night policeman halted the paraders and demanded an explanation. The count said he was on his way home and had bought the sofa and that it was his property. The officer probably thought the question of propriety too important for him to decide and escorted the prisoners, including the sofa, into the presence of the precinct captain. The count told his story and presented his receipt for the sofa's purchase. The captain verified these statements by telephoning to the restaurant proprietor and advised his unwilling guests to go home.

In less than an hour the captain was astonished to have the sofa and its retinue of attendants brought before him by another officer. The party was released a second time. The incident was repeated three times, and the captain was becoming a bit subject for the madhouse when he had a brilliant idea. Four officers were ordered to march with the count, the sofa and the party to escort them home.

Slowly the procession moved toward the shore. When a landing place was reached the count and his friends made a jump for the bridge where a motor launch was in waiting. Amid the cheers of the crowd the launch sped away, leaving the officers to carry the sofa wearily back to the police station.

Imperishable. "Do you think it a wise thing to send a boy away to college, Binks?" asked Rippleton. "Oh, yes," replied Binks. "Teaches him independence."

"But doesn't he get out of touch with home influences?" persisted Rippleton.

"Not altogether," said Binks. "He gets away from the home influences, but the 'touch' goes on forever!"—Lip-

Charles Dobbins, who has charge of the garden of Mrs. M. C. Carpenter, at her residence on St. Louis avenue, has grown some freak tomatoes. Instead of the tomato appearing at the stem from the vine, they are growing from the leaf stems. Practically all of the tomatoes are growing in this manner and only a few appear in the usual manner. They are all well formed and seem to be in good condition.

He is also cultivating a strawberry patch which is bearing a second crop. The plants have been blooming for some time and he has gathered quite a number of large berries this week. He expects to pick about a quart of berries from the second crop.

The Keithley, Alexander and Hunter families will hold their annual reunion in Ragsdale's grove, at Heltonville, on Sunday, September 11, 1910. All relatives and friends are especially invited to be present with well-filled baskets and enjoy the occasion. Music, religious exercises and social conversation will be the order of the day.

Mrs. Newton Dodds and Mrs. Mettie McMillan returned to Medora this morning, having been at Uniontown yesterday at the instituting of the new Temple of Pythian Sisters. Mrs. McMillan is the D. D. G. C. of the 17th district. While here they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Bartlett on West Second street.

MANY DIED

Of Consumption in Indiana During the Year 1909.

The ravages of consumption in Indiana during 1909, according to the State Board of Health, resulted in 4,479 deaths. Homes numbering 3,866 were invaded by consumption during the year. The homes broken up by the loss of a father or a mother numbered 2,180. There were 1,286 mothers between 18 and 40 years old who died of the disease and 998 fathers of the same age.

Consumption made 4,360 children under the age of 12 years, fatherless or motherless during the year. Young people between the ages of 15 and 25 who died of consumption in 1909 numbered 938. It is estimated by Dr. King that the cost of the sickness, including nurse hire and physicians' services and loss of wages because of sickness and deaths, amounted to $13,943,980.

EXCITING MISHAP AT ELGIN RACES

Indianapolis Tragedy Almost Repeated.

THE CAR THAT KILLED KINCAID

A Scene That Thrilled Many Spectators at Automobile Races at the Illinois Town When Speeding Machine Ran into Culvert.

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 25.—Hurtling at breakneck speed over the Elgin race course in the same car that crushed out the life of Tom Kincaid at Indianapolis, Arthur W. Greiner narrowly escaped a like death yesterday as his giant racing machine dashed into a blind culvert just after the McLean turn and landed almost a wreck beside the roadway. But a few minutes afterward G. F. Gelnav, in a Falcar, slewed off the Udina curve in the second accident to mar the attractions since the opening of the practice work Monday.

The smashup of the National occurred during a match race between Greiner and his racing partner, Al Livingston. Spurred on by the cheers of the crowd as they rounded the first turn in the course at mad speed, the two started in for a friendly clash. Greiner held the advantage of several yards and led around the McLean turn a short distance away. Hitting the stretch, Livingston threw wide his throttle and at a signal from Mechanician Vernon, on the car ahead, dashed around to the front.

Greiner was unprepared for the move, and as he saw his partner abreast he pulled slightly out to the side to give him room, only to crash into the culvert, which he says was without warning or mark of any kind.

Greiner applied the brakes with a jam, and a rapid handling of the wheel was probably all that saved both men from more serious accident. As it was, the front end of the car was badly smashed, one wheel was pulled far out of line and the steering gear was wrenched out of place. The car was put entirely out of racing commission.

Gelnav shot off the roadbed at the Udina turn, which has received little banking and which is rather dangerous from the fact that it is on a down grade and runs into another crook for a partial "S" swing. He drove his racer down the stretch at a terrific speed and shut down just before the turn to a milder gait, but his car whipped the corner with a bound, swung far over the bedway and dashed into the soft earth of a potato field.

Young Orr's Death.

Jamestown, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Benjamin F. Orr, Jr., eighteen years old, of St. Louis, who was drowned in Chautauqua lake last Saturday afternoon and whose body was found yesterday by a fisherman, sacrificed his life to save that of his girl companion, Miss Margaret Birely, of Shelbyville, Ind. This fact was shown by the brief investigation conducted by Coroner Elliston of Jamestown. Orr could easily have clung to the canoe until help arrived had it not been for the presence of the girl. The canoe would not support both, and so the young man exhausted himself in getting the girl into a position of comparative safety and then sought to swim to the shore, about a mile distant. His last words were designed to cheer the girl. Buffeted by the waves and gripped by slimy masses of weeds, he called to her several times reassuringly as he struggled toward shore, and he only ceased calling when his strength gave out and he sank in twenty feet of water. The young man's mother is ill in St. Louis and his father cannot leave her bedside.

Young Englishman Identified.

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 25.—Erne L. Martyre, the youngest son of Sir Chambers Martyre of England, who was traveling by the name of Ernest Manners and who left England because of a love affair, was discovered in Galveston through the immigration authorities, who had been asked to locate the young man, who is twenty-six years old. He was washing dishes in a hotel for his board and $25 a month. A cablegram from his father offering to forgive him, reinstate him as heir to a large portion of the estate, estimated to be worth millions, and to a cash remittance of $2,000, was rejected by the young man. Martyre says his father will have to consent to his marriage or he can cut him out of the estate.

A Noted Divorcee.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Mrs. Jack Cudahy, who was granted a divorce from her husband in a Kansas City court fourteen minutes after the bill was filed, has arrived here and carried out the order of the court by surrendering her children to the custody of Michael Cudahy, her father-in-law. Mrs. Cudahy returned to Kansas City today and before the end of the week the children, accompanied by their grandparents, will be on their way to Mr. Cudahy's summer home at Mackinac Island. Under the court's decree Mrs. Cudahy will be allowed to be with her children half the time, and with this arrangement she declares herself to be perfectly satisfied.

TAFT WOULD LIKE REVISION

President Writes Congressman McKinley.

HIS FUTURE MOVEMENTS

The President Will Get Back to Washington in September, Going First to Beverly After His Trip to the Northwest to Attend the Conservation Congress at St. Paul.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 24.—President Taft will give the first state week-end party at the White House the latter part of next month that that historic mansion has seen in many a long year. The president will have as his house guests for at least three days beginning Sept. 26 all the members of his cabinet. From the White House proper they will be able to walk over unobserved to the executive offices and hold cabinet meetings galore.

The president has announced a change of plans for the month of September. He will leave Beverly for St. Paul and the conservation congress on Sept. 3, according to the old and the new schedules. Returning from St. Paul, however, the president will come direct to Beverly instead of dropping down to Washington for a few days. On Sept. 20 he will leave Beverly for Washington, where he will remain probably until Sept. 29, when he is due to start for New York. On Sept. 30 the president will make his keynote address to the League of Republican clubs at Carnegie hall. From New York he will come straight back to Beverly, where he may stay until a few days before election.

The resignation of Secretary Ballinger is expected to appear at the cabinet meeting in Washington next month. According to gossip here now the resignation will not be forthcoming then, and probably will not show up until November, at the earliest.

A scientific revision of certain schedules of the present tariff is to be one of the prophecies with which the voters of the country are to be greeted in the Republican campaign textbook out next month. Mr. Taft himself is to be sponsor for this implied promise. It will be a promise not only to revise certain schedules of the Payne-Aldrich law, but it will show that thereby the business of this country will not be upset. It will assure revision on scientific lines and without the unsound results of business depression.

In the letter which the president mailed from Beverly to Representative McKinley at Chicago this promise was contained. The revision of individual schedules is to be made on information furnished by the tariff commission which is now at work collecting data showing the relative cost of production here and abroad. The commission has conducted its investigations into each schedule which was thought worthy of inquiry.

The president pointed out in the letter he sent to Mr. McKinley that there were some schedules of the Payne-Aldrich law which probably could be improved. He asserted that it was his purpose that if the tariff commission collected data showing that schedules were not right they be made right. The president held the opinion that a revision of certain individual schedules did not imply a revision of all.

SHE WAS DRESSED IN BOY'S CLOTHES

This Girl Worked As a Detective.

New York, Aug. 24.—Florence Landen, an English girl, who had masqueraded as a man for two months, working as an amateur detective, a grocer's boy and a waiter, confessed her identity to a detective. After a talk with Magistrate House she was sent to the Florence Crittenton home. She will be dressed in woman's attire and sent back to England.

Hearing that a reward of $5,000 was being offered for the arrest of the kidnapper of an Italian boy, she set to work as an amateur detective. The search proved unsuccessful and after three weeks she abandoned it. Then she got a job as a grocer's boy at $6 a week. Fearing detection here she left and secured a position as a waiter in a Broadway restaurant. She was still working there when the detective found her out. She said that she was twenty-one years old and that her parents were well-to-do residents of London.

Double Tragedy.

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—Angered by the refusal of his wife to receive him in her home until the expiration of a period of probation, Ellwood Smith, fifty-one years old, a wealthy contractor, shot and instantly killed his wife, Bella, aged thirty, in the second story of their dwelling on North Fifteenth street. He then sent a bullet into his own brain, dying shortly afterward in St. Joseph's hospital.

HOW IT IS THAT THE CITIES LOSE

Result of Workings of the Barrett Law.

COMBINED LOSS ENORMOUS

Richmond's Experience Calls Attention to the Law's Defects—Remedy Will Probably Be Sought Before the Legislature Next Winter.

Richmond, Ind., Aug. 24.—That heavy losses are suffered by many Indiana cities in the handling of improvement bonds issued under the Barrett law, has been revealed as a result of an investigation just concluded here. Though the detailed results of an examination of the improvement bond records of the city, covering a period of a dozen years or more, have not been made public, it is known that a loss of $21,998.98 has been suffered by the city of Richmond during this time as a result of the shrinkage due to the payment of interest after property owners had met their obligations in advance of the waivered period.

For instance, if John Smith's assessment for the making of a sidewalk improvement is $150 and he decides to take ten years in which to pay, waiver improvement bonds bearing 5 per cent interest per annum are issued and sold by the contractor to whom they are delivered.

The bonds run ten years, but if John Smith at the end of two years decides that he wishes to do away with the installment plan of meeting his assessment and pays the balance in one installment, the city demands only one year's additional interest. The bonds run eight years more and unless the city calls them in, which it has the legal right to do, the interest for the remaining seven years must be paid annually out of the city's coffers.

If it happened that only once in a long time these waivered assessments were paid up before the period for which they were taken had expired, there would be little for a city to grumble over, but as a matter of fact there is a large percentage of property owners who pay up their full assessments before the ten years expire, and many of them make full settlement after the first or second year.

A Wealthy Robber.

Martinsville, Ind., Aug. 24.—Hugh M. Bercaw, a retired farmer worth $250,000, was arrested here on a charge of burglary, being detected in the act of stealing from the store of Benjamin Pavey. The dealer had been missing little articles from time to time, especially cigars and tobacco, and he concluded to keep a watch for the thief. He rents the store-room from Bercaw, and he saw his landlord fit a key into the lock of the rear door and enter and make selections from the cigar case. He confronted Bercaw in the store, but did not order his arrest at once.

Authorities Will Investigate.

Corydon, Ind., Aug. 24.—Several days ago the body of Andrew Ebert was buried here, death having occurred at the southern hospital for the insane at Evansville. Relatives became suspicious and the coroner exhumed the body and discovered that Ebert had died from a blow on the head that had fractured the skull. The local authorities have started an investigation at the hospital on the theory that Ebert was murdered and the hospital authorities tried to conceal the fact. No cause for the man's death was assigned when his body was brought here.

Illinois Central Graft.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—That the graft in the Illinois Central may reach $4,000,000 was indicated when audit figures prepared for the board of directors during several years became public. Another development came when Detective William Burns, who has been conducting the graft investigation for the road, suddenly left Chicago for Memphis. This was preceded by a report that one of the most important witnesses for the road, a grafted who had confessed, had disappeared and that Burns had gone to find him.

Three Killed.

New York, Aug. 24.—A man and two little girls were instantly killed and eight others were seriously injured when an auto with five occupants jumped beneath raised gates onto the westbound track of the Montauk division of the Long Island railroad directly in the path of a construction train at the Merrick road crossing over the railroad tracks between the village of Springfield and Jamaica. Those killed were in the auto party—the injured included the other three people who were in the car and members of a construction gang on the train, who were thrown about when the auto derailed the two cars of the train at the impact of the collision.

JOSEPH O. SIBLEY

After Spending Thousands to Get It, He Gives Up the Race.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES

Former Congressman Must Face the Courts.

Franklin, Pa., Aug. 24.—Joseph C. Sibley, who withdrew as a candidate for congress on the Republican ticket in the Twenty-eighth Pennsylvania district, was arrested late at night on a warrant charging "conspiracy to debauch voters." Sibley gave illness as the cause of his withdrawal.

Sibley was released on his own recognition to appear before Justice of the Peace Perry at Warren, Pa., on Aug. 26. The arrest came a few hours after he had announced his withdrawal from the congressional race. According to his own figures, filed in obedience to the legislative act requiring a public statement of a candidate's expense account, Sibley spent $17,000 in Warren county to obtain his nomination, and in the entire district $42,000, which, according to population, averaged $4 a vote. In the warrant under which Sibley was arrested, three other prominent politicians in the Twenty-eighth district are also charged with conspiracy to debauch voters.

The day's developments wind up the political career of Joseph Sibley, who has played a prominent part in national affairs for many years. Mr. Sibley has been known as the weather vane of politics. In his time he has been Republican, Prohibitionist, Silver Democrat, Gold Democratic and finally Republican again. Through all his variations he maintained one close and useful connection—that with the Standard Oil company.

BEATS HIS RECORD MADE AT INDIANAPOLIS

Walter Brookins Thrills Sight-
Seers at Asbury Park

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 24.—One of the "five famous" fliers, who have been sailing aeroplanes out over the interlaken aviation field during the present meeting made an honest observation yesterday. The airman was looking upward with hand-shaded eyes as Walter Brookins doubled up and down the field like an aerial jackrabbit.

"There is not another flier living who can turn like that," the rival flier said enthusiastically. "If any of us tried it, and especially with that new model plane, he would be killed. Even Orville Wright can't turn a complete circle in less than 11½ seconds, and Brookins is doing it in almost half that time."

An instant after the aviator spoke "Brooky" did spin a circle in less than half that time. Brookins had been in the air about four minutes when as he reached a point opposite the north end of the grandstand and more than 500 feet above the center of the field with a strong southeast breeze speeding him higher each moment, he suddenly tilted at an angle that caused gasps, and spun completely around in 5½ seconds, according to the stopwatch. As the official sanction of the meet lasted only throughout the final three days of last week, Brookins' record whirl is not official.

Rival sky skippers crowded around Brookins to congratulate him when he descended. He realized, he said, that his last turn before starting on his long glide to the field was a quick one, but he was much surprised when told that it was faster than his record turn at Indianapolis.

Circumstantial Evidence.

Mark Twain on circumstantial evidence: "Even the clearest and most perfect circumstantial evidence is likely to be at fault, after all, and therefore ought to be received with great caution. Take the case of any pencil sharpened by any woman. If you have witnesses you will find she did it with a knife, but if you take simply the aspect of the pencil you will say she did it with her teeth."

BROTHER AND SISTER

Meet for First Time in Fifty-two Years.

One of the best illustrations of how the annual soldiers' reunion and home coming at this place is made the occasion for a reunion of old friends and relatives, was furnished during the reunion last week, when a brother and sister met each other for the first time in fifty-two years.

The man was James Sowder, of Russell, Laclede County, Iowa, and his sister is Mrs. Margaret Hurley, of near Clearspring. Their meeting occurred on Wednesday, the first day of the reunion. Mrs. Hurley was expecting to meet her brother and, notwithstanding the fact that she had not seen him for so many years, she recognized him on first sight when she happened to see him standing at Durment's corner.

However, the brother would not have recognized his sister had she not made herself known. Mr. Sowder was born near Lexington, Scott county, but raised in this county near what was formerly known as Stillwell's Ferry, about a mile and a half west of town, where his father owned a farm. He helped to clear much of the land in that community, which was mostly a wilderness during Mr. Sowder's boyhood days.

He left this state in 1860, and located in Iowa, having made the trip in a wagon. He is now in his 81st year but is remarkably spry for one of his advanced years. Although this was his first visit to Brownstown since he left here fifty years ago, yet he was able to recognize a few of his old acquaintances and call them by name. He says the town and country has changed wonderfully but he was able to recognize many of the old landmarks.—Brownstown Banner.

BADLY HURT.

Grant Taylor Falls from Threshing Machine.

Grant Taylor was badly injured this morning at the home of Samuel Braden, near Freetown. He was working with a threshing machine crew and fell from the top of the separator, hurting his shoulders and back.

After medical attention had been given, he was taken to his home, near Kurtz.

MORE HELP

Is Needed Badly at the Seymour Glove Factory.

W. A. Carter, who owns the glove factory, says the crying need in that establishment at present is more help.

When it moved the factory here from North Vernon, he thought there would be no difficulty in securing girls but this has not proved to be the case.

About fifteen girls are at work this week and twice as many are needed.

About 700 hundred dozen gloves are shipped out each week and many more could be put out. Recently a traveling man who carries the gloves as a sideline spent one day in Illinois selling them and disposed of 900 dozen.

The slowest girl in the factory at present is making over $4 a week. Some of the girls are making $1.35 a day. All the work is by the piece.

Could sufficient help be secured Mr. Carter would begin putting out an additional line, fancy aprons. The Commercial Club of Atlanta, Ga. has recently been making a strong effort to induce Mr. Carter to remove the factory to Atlanta. He prefers to keep it here, but unless more help can be secured by next year he may find it necessary to consider another location.

It is too good a thing for Seymour to lose. One of the attractive features of this enterprise is that it didn't cost the city anything to get it. Factories that come this way are generally the best kind.

BIG FISH

Caught in the Muscatatuck River Wednesday.

Charles Albright and John Powers, who are in camp on the Muscatatuck, made the biggest catch of the season Wednesday.

They took a forty-five pound catfish off their trot line about one hundred yards below the bridge at Chestnut Ridge station. They brought the fish to town last night and it attracted much attention.

Yesterday and the night before their catch was over 100 pounds.

SIGNAL APPRENTICES.

Appointed by Pennsylvania Railroad For New Course of Training.

The increasing demand for greater safety and facility in railroad operation has caused the Pennsylvania Railroad to institute a new plan of training men to maintain and operate its signals. Accordingly there have just been appointed four signal apprentices.

Signal apprentices will serve a three years' course. The first year will be spent on the mechanical end of the work with the repair and construction gangs, the second year in the office of the Supervisor of Signals, and the third year on outside work on electric and electro-pneumatic appliances. They will report to the Supervisor of Signals while taking this course.

The next place open to these men is the position of Assistant Signal Inspector in the Signal Engineer's office. After attaining this they will be considered in line of appointment to the following positions: Assistant Supervisor of Signals, Supervisor of Signals, Inspector, Assistant Engineer and Signal Engineer.

BATTLE IN THE CLOUDS

Pain's Great Aerial Spectacle At the Indiana State Fair.

The most elaborate spectacle ever offered at the Indiana State Fair will be given the week of September 12, when Pain's new pyro-aero-military display, "Battle in the Clouds" is presented. It will be a big night attraction of the fair, given on and above the infield of the racetrack, where 25,000 people may witness it in comfort. Experience of other years has shown the fair management that the crowds cannot all be taken care of at the night horse show in the coliseum, and "Battle in the Clouds" has been provided to give pleasure to as many thousands as may go to the exposition in the evening.

"Battle in the Clouds" undertakes to give a look into the mode of warfare which may prevail in the year 2,000 A. D., when airships, aeroplanes, aerial torpedoes and deadly gas grenades become the engines of human conflict. The spectacle will require a stage 400 feet long, behind which will be stretched scenes reaching to sixty feet in height, showing a progressive city of the time. On its streets will be several hundred men and women in costumes to enjoy a fete day, with processions, sports and acrobatic pastimes. When the fete is at its height, wireless messages bring word of the approach of an enemy's air fleet, and suddenly the scouting vanguard floats over the city. The forts open fire with electric shells, driving the aerial monsters into retreat, but soon the main fleet advances and opens the attack.

The fort and the fleet open a terrific bombardment of fire shells, aerial torpedoes and bursting bombs, filling the heavens with fire, electric flashes and thunderous detonations. Some of the airships are disabled and leave the firing line; one explodes high in the air; another becomes disabled and dashes to the ground, its men escaping in parachutes. The airships bombard the city's fortifications with high explosives, fire balls and grenades. Battery after battery is silenced and finally the magazine is blown up. Towers and buildings in the city fall and burn and devastation and ruin follows.

The spectacle is marked by vividness and thrilling excitement, and includes elaborate vaudeville and fireworks.

STATE FAIR PROGRAM

Big Exposition Will Overflow

With Fine Attractions.

The State Fair, to be held the week of September 12, is going to be overflowing with choice features for visitors, and Monday, the first day, promises to be the best of the week, for on that day there will be a special race between the four greatest pacers in the world—Minor Heir, Hedgewood Boy, Lady Maud C and George Gano. On Monday, too, all of the special attractions will begin, including concerts by Weber's prize band of America, the Indianapolis Military and Indianapolis Newsboys' bands, the vaudeville and carnival shows open, and in the evening the horse shows and Pain's big spectacle "Battle in the Clouds" will be given. The crowds of visitors may grow as the week advances, but the quality of the fair will be practically the same throughout.

The school children and old soldiers will be admitted free on Tuesday.

The races are unusually promising and the purses are uncommonly rich. Some of the events closed back in the spring with heavy entry lists and many prominent horses will start. The racing program for the week follows: Monday—2:30 three-year-old trot, purse $1,000; 2:25 three-year-old pace, $1,000; 2:30 trot, $2,000; 2:07 pace, $1,000. Tuesday—2:22 pace, $1,000; 2:19 trot, $1,000; 2:15 pace, $5,000; 2:09 trot, $1,000. Wednesday—2:25 pace, $2,000; 2:20 trot, $5,000; 2:13 pace, $1,000; 2:16 trot, $1,000.

Thursday—2:09 pace, $2,500; 2:21 trot, $1,000; 2:18 pace, $1,000; 2:06 trot, $1,200.

Friday—2:12 trot, $2,500; 2:11 pace, $1,000; 2:24 trot, $1,000; free-for-all pace, $1,200. The races will start promptly at 1 p. m. each day.

The vaudeville given during the races will include the Belford family of acrobats, the four Busong brothers, head and hand balancers; Cordua and Maud, pedestal equilibrists and gymnasts; Rondas and Booth, the smartest cyclists Europe has produced.

Herbert A. Kline's carnival shows, with a great variety of entertaining features, will make up the fair's "midway."

Animals and Climbing.

Bears can climb well if little, but the grizzly and other large species stay mainly on the ground. A bear always climbs down a tree backward, as does the domestic cat until she has nearly reached the ground, when she turns and jumps, but most wildcats run down a trunk head first, even the heavy leopard being a more skillful climber than the light house cat. The tiger and lion, however, do not climb, for no discoverable reason unless it be that they fear falling on account of their weight.
